DAILY MESSAGE OF SAINT JOSEPH, TRANSMITTED IN THE MARIAN CENTER OF FIGUEIRA, MINAS GERAIS, BRAZIL, TO THE VISIONARY SISTER LUCÍA DE JESÚS

XXIV - The Only Purpose: Live Love

A soul that aspired to one day be able to live unity with all beings and with God sought within each religion points that could unite each one of them, in love and respect. And one day, in prayer, the soul questioned the Lord, saying: "Lord, You are the same God for all true religions. You are the same One Who inspires hearts and souls along the path of return to Your Spirit of Love. Tell me, then, what is there in each religion that unites us, that makes us all Your Children?"

And with love, the Lord responded: "What makes you My Children, little soul, are not the religions, but life itself. The fact that you exist in the vast Creation makes each being a child of God loved and favored, created for a purpose and with a mission.

Religions are impulses that I have given to humanity time and again so that souls would remember the path toward their evolution, but it has not only through religions that I have sent these impulses to the world; I also done so through nature, silence, service and, oftentimes, through suffering, because some of My children have chosen this path to awaken and perceive that they were not understanding life in the correct way, and that they were missing the true meaning of their existence.

Through religions, I have sent impulses to the world and as human beings grew and evolved mentally, emotionally and in soul, these impulses were able to become more expansive, more clear, more direct.

Through Krishna, I led them to an awakening of a simple degree of love, a love for life, for the elements, for energies. I led you to a broader perception of existence, and I began to create a path of return to My Heart. However, each being understood religion in a different way and manifested it according to their possibilities, which oftentimes were not pure like My impulses are.

Through Buddha, I taught you unity with the All, the compassionate love and peace. I taught My children to live in communion with the universe and to step out of the constant rounds of errors and their consequences. You were then ready to understand that it is you yourselves who are responsible for your lives, and through your choices, you attract to yourselves the rays and the impulses that elevate you or correct you, according to that which you choose to experience.

But not all of humanity evolved, not all opened to love.

The human mind developed, and with the mind, its wickedness developed rather than its love. Instead of My Children living in communion with life, they wished to possess it and manipulate it. For this reason, they made ways of getting what they wanted.

Through the Patriarchs, I again gave impulses to beings, correcting their paths; impulses that were also experienced according to their understanding.

Until I sent My Son to the world, not only with a teaching, but with a Grace. Different from all previous religions, it was not through knowledge or a constant effort to elevate yourselves that you would reach Me, but rather through a grace and the Mercy that a surrendered heart can receive.

The Love of Christ did not come for a few; it came for all. It did not come for the East or for the West; it came for all life, for all the beings that, in spite of their sins, knew how to say yes.

In previous times, humanity reached divine dimensions through a constant effort for elevation. Through Christ, the Kingdom was revealed to you within your own hearts, and throughout human evolution, My impulses continue to be renewed.

I begin to gather within My Children all the knowledge and all the degrees of love because the time has come for a synthesis of life on Earth, the time of the narrow and only doorway through which all beings will reach Me. And this doorway, beloved soul, is the love within your hearts.

This is why I Am the God of Life, because I love all and I have taught all how to love. This is the path for reaching Me. Therefore, come, in spite of differences. Come, in spite of knowledge. Come, in spite of the impulses that you have received, because all of them have had one purpose; that of leading you into loving."

May this dialogue, children, teach you how to understand the cycles of life and their true meanings, and to know that in spite of all the complexity of human existence, for everything there is one purpose, which is the living of love.

You have My blessing for this.
