DAILY MESSAGE OF SAINT JOSEPH, TRANSMITTED during the journey from the city of Redwood, California, to PHOENIX, ARIZONA, UNITED STATES, TO THE VISIONARY SISTER LUCÍA DE JESÚS

The Spirit of God dwells in the mountains and expresses within them His strength to inspire souls towards the elevation and illumination of consciousness.

The Spirit of God dwells in the silence of the mountains, in their interior, where the history of all life is held, from where this world is sustained in secret and in solitude.

The Spirit of God dwells in the mountains, inviting His children to discover the truth about themselves.

Nature, children, holds within itself many attributes and gifts of the Spirit of God. This Holy and Immaculate Spirit dwells in matter to invite it to find the sacred which exists within this dimension of life.

The Spirit of God, silent in the depths of nature, invites us to find unity, not only among brothers and sisters, but also unity with life, with the dimensions, with the stars.

Let your spirits find the silent Spirit of God, hidden in everything that expresses harmony and beauty, and allow yourselves to be inspired, awakened and renewed by this Divine Presence.

The Spirit of God dwells in the mountains to lead you towards the highest point of your own consciousness which is, at the same time, the most hidden, and which reveals itself in the silence of your inner self.

Find in yourselves the high peaks, where the Spirit of God dwells. There you will be in peace.

You have My blessing for this.

The Most Chaste Saint Joseph
